SENIOR CLASS

PEGGY SUE REYNOLDS
President

As this year passed and the seniors realized that they would soon enter college, each made a conscientious effort to prepare herself academically. Likewise, as each girl realized that she would soon be leaving the Academy, she contributed her best toward making this year most rewarding for Salem and for herself. Through informal discussions in Senior Seminar, new emphasis was placed on the true meaning of ideas and principles such as truth and religion. Miss Lit, serving as their instructor, helped each girl to formulate new opinions on each subject and to understand its meaning more clearly.

Each senior returned to Salem last fall with a strong determination and sense of duty to her class and her school. This determination to give of herself was obvious throughout the year, but especially at such times as Senior Day.

Though at times the way seemed difficult, the seniors have felt their years at Salem Academy have been most profitable. As they leave, they carry with them many cherished memories of their years at Salem.

CLASS OF 1961

JUNIOR CLASS

Class Officers: Adelaide Reece, Secretary; Sarah Stowers, Treasurer; Paula Sue Russell, Vice-President; Frances Masland, President.

The juniors this year, as all former juniors, spent their spare time earning the wherewithal for the most anticipated event of the year, the Junior-Senior. The auction, their first project, was a great success. The juniors continued to increase their funds by selling Christmas cards, stationery, tip-ons, hose, socks, and, on Sunday mornings, coffee and doughnuts. The class combined their hard-earned money and their originality to make this year's Junior-Senior the best ever. The dance, with its Mardi Gras theme, was held in February and will be long remembered by the graduating class.

Due to the seniors' promptness, the class received their much-anticipated Salem blazers early in November. At last they were able to flaunt their upper class status. In the late spring when the student body officers for the 1961-'62 were elected, the juniors realized that their senior year, with all its added responsibilities, was only a few months away.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Class Officers: Judy Walston, Vice-President; Linda Brown, Secretary; Kathy Kidd, President.

This year's sophomore class has demonstrated its zeal and originality through the various projects it has presented to the school. The Open House with the theme "Heart of my Heart" provided an entertaining beginning for the weekend of Junior-Senior. The annual skit displayed the outstanding talent of the class. The movies they presented on several occasions were appreciated by the entire school.

FRESHMAN CLASS

This year the freshmen have distinguished themselves academically and have shown co-operation and school spirit in all activities. Among other duties the freshmen raised the flag daily in front of the school and, as members of the Service Committee, cheered many in the infirmary by delivering their mail.

This year the Ring banquet given by the freshmen added a new feature to Senior Day. This banquet held in October was enjoyed by all, especially the members of the graduating class.

The annual Freshman Carnival, held in January, had as its theme T.V. Land. The original decorations and attractive booths added to the evening of fun.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT COUNCIL

Although it is every Salem girl's duty to uphold the rules and regulations of her school, a student council is provided to guide Salemites in maintaining the desired high standard of student government. The council is composed of the Student Body president, the Honor Council president and representatives from both day student groups and each hall; it meets every week to discuss problems of dormitory life, to make new rules, and to discard outdated ones.

Among other activities the council sponsors the traditional Birthday banquet in September, the Christmas banquet and party for the help, and the inspiring Spirit Fire Ceremony.

HONOR COUNCIL

"The Honor Council tries to instill personal integrity in every girl at Salem." Yes, every Salemite has heard these very words many, many times during her life at the Academy. It is on this principle that our honor system is based.

The council, composed of the Student Body president, the Honor Council president, and representatives from the day student group and each class, meets every week to discuss and to suggest improvements in matters relating to academic honesty. Thus by strengthening the character and integrity of each student, the council builds the character and integrity of the school.

ELIZABETH TERRY, Editor; MERRILY AUSTIN, Assistant Editor.

To leave with each student a book recapturing the highlights of a year at Salem Academy was the purpose of the 1960-'61 Quill Pen staff. A yearbook is one of the few material mementos that a student may cherish and enjoy for many years. The staff has endeavored to fulfill its purpose through vital co-operation and by enthusiasm.

Mrs. Nancy Maurice, the staff's sponsor, with her interest and helpful advice, assisted the staff in presenting each Salemite with a book which will keep Salem in her heart when Salem is no longer her home.

Elizabeth Terry, Parks Freeze, Jo Northup, Brownie Rogers.

PEN

With efficiency and co-operation the Ad Staff has shared in making the 1961 Quill Pen a successful yearbook. Before the yearbook could be published, it was necessary to collect advertisements from merchants in Winston-Salem and other cities. With promptness and determination the staff did their job to the best of their ability, thus contributing greatly toward the publication of this yearbook.

Seibels, Sarah Stadiem, Paula Henry, Sarah Harris, Sue Justice, Brownie Rogers, Sara Hoback, Bette Upton, Julia Horner, Sharon Leckie.

The Scribblers' Club of Salem is composed of girls who are interested in the fields of creative writing or illustrating, either as a hobby or as a possible future career. The members must meet the standards in their respective fields and be interested in publishing the school magazine, Spilled Ink. The Scribblers' Club is also responsible for a summer edition of the magazine, Pencil Shavings. Miss Nowack is the club's sponsor.

The club's goal is to acquaint its members with writing, proof-reading, assembling a paper, and all other work necessary for publication with the exception of mimeographing, which is done by Miss Hanson.

Although most of the material in the Spilled Ink is contributed by members of the Scribblers' Club, the entire student body is encouraged to submit articles.

DRAMATICS CLUB

Arthur, Brownie Rogers, Patty Nash, Rachel Oestreicher, Sharon Lockie, Helen Rogers, Jo Northrop.

Officers: Oliver Gilbert, Vice-President; Paula Sue Russell, Secretary; Taffey Shockey, President.

The Dramatics Club is a vital part of life at Salem, not only to its members, but also to the entire student body. For the entertainment of its audiences, this organization presents a series of one-act plays in the fall and a three-act play in the spring. Since these activities are not confined strictly to club members, any girl can accumulate the ten points needed for membership in the Dramatics Club by taking part in the plays or serving backstage. Members are also required to earn six points each year to retain their membership.

Much of the success of the club is due to the interest and helpful advice of its director, Mr. James Bray. Although the club includes no professional actresses, the members have great fun as amateurs.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Mi-Mi McArthur, Assistant Chairman; Merrily Austin, Chairman; Taffey Shockey and Melinda Blanton, Chairmen of banquet committee.

Dances, banquets, and teas are presented by the Social Committee of Salem. A fall dance, with decorations of brightly colored leaves, was their first activity of the year. It is hoped that the Father-Daughter banquet, which followed in November, will become an annual affair.

Merrily Austin, chairman; Marion McArthur, assistant chairman; Melinda Blanton and Mary Shockey, co-chairmen of the banquet committee have directed their committees in planning many successful social functions at Salem.

GLEE CLUB

Officers: Emily Pleasants, President; Jennie McGuire, Vice-President; Bonnie Davis, Treasurer; Lynn Chatham, Secretary; Parker Forbes, Librarian.

For the Salem girls who enjoy singing, the Glee Club offers a wonderful opportunity. All girls are eligible for this organization. Under the expert direction of Mrs. Burroughs, the ninety-minute period every Friday afternoon is a worthwhile experience.

The Christmas program, which the Glee Club gives every year at Adelaide's church, was rehearsed for several weeks and was given the Sunday before the Christmas holidays. This is the girls' way of showing their gratitude to Adelaide for her faithful devotion all these years. The concert was repeated later for parents who live near and for faculty.

This year a joint concert in April with the boys from Asheville School was a huge success, both in anticipation and in performance. It is hoped it will become an annual event.

RED CROSS COUNCIL

JENNIE McGUIRE, President, and Rena Penn.

Every student at Salem has an opportunity to join the Red Cross by pledging her time, service, and money. During the year the members participate in such worthwhile activities as packing a gift box for disaster areas and giving the County Home a party.

It is the function of the Red Cross Council, under the able supervision of Mrs. Britt, to plan and direct a philanthropic program for the year at Salem. The council is composed of elected representatives from the day student and hall groups.

COMMUNITY AND WORLD SERVICE COMMITTEE

Chairman

Through the Community and World Service Committee, which is composed of representatives from each hall and the day student group, Salemites are given an opportunity to help those less fortunate than themselves.

The duties of the committee are many and varied. From donations given by the student body, the committee contributes to such worthwhile causes as the Heart Fund and cancer research programs. These contributions also pay the education expenses of several girls at Colegio Morava, the Moravian school in Nicaragua. The committee, in addition, sponsors an Italian foster child, Daniela Proietti, to whom money for food, clothing, and schooling is sent.

SPIRITUAL LIFE COUNCIL

The purpose of the Spiritual Life Council is to promote Christian living throughout the school. It is composed of representatives from each hall and a permanent cabinet, appointed by the President, Gail McMichael.

The council, under the guidance of Miss Wheeler, is in charge of Friday night devotions, Sunday evening vespers, visits to the Salem Home, and various other projects. In February Dr. Jack Noffsinger was the guest speaker during Religious Emphasis Days.

GOLDS

Every student at Salem is a member of one of the two athletic teams—Purple and Gold. In September the team captains draw names to determine on which team each new girl will be during her years at Salem. When the members have been chosen, the traditional tug-of-war between the Purples and the Golds takes place. Legend holds that the team winning this contest will also win the silver cup at the end of the year, but even legend is sometimes just legend.

Both the Purples and the Golds strive throughout the year to earn the most points. Each student has physical education classes two or three times a week and participates in other athletic activities which offer an opportunity to win points. Just a few of these are morning walks, bowling, and tournaments in recreational sports. At the close of each season the Athletic Council sponsors competitive games in the sports the girls have been studying.

Once during each semester the council presents an athletic banquet at which time those girls displaying special interest and skill in a particular sport are announced as varsity players. At the close of the year these girls receive medals to honor their outstanding ability.

Recognition Day is the highlight of the athletic program at Salem. On this occasion the silver cup is presented to the team which has the most points.

The Athletic Council, composed of the heads of the Purple and Gold teams and the leaders of the different sports, guides the athletic activities of Salem life. This includes sponsoring various Purple-Gold games, organizing tournaments, and planning and decorating for banquets.

On the athletic field a Salemite is given the opportunity to play with girls of all ages rather than just girls in her own class. The council tries to instill good school spirit and to foster sportsmanship. Miss Owens helps us carry out our purpose.

BECKY BROWN, Head of Purples, and BROWNIE ROGERS, Head of Golds

HONORS

HONOR GRADUATES

Each year, in recognition of outstanding academic achievement, the names of the two seniors with the highest scholastic averages are inscribed in gold on the wood plaques in the social room. The Honor Graduates of 1961 are Emese Soos and Elizabeth Holmes.

ACADEMIC COMMENCEMENT MARSHALS

One of the highest honors bestowed on a selected few at Salem is that of Academic Commencement Marshal. Seven of the most outstanding underclassmen are elected to this position by the senior class. They are chosen for citizenship, school spirit, academic achievement, and poise. The duties of this group include serving at the Senior-Faculty breakfast in the spring and acting as marshals for the seniors at graduation.

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

An honor bestowed upon certain underclassmen each year is that of being chosen as a senior's personal marshal. Each member of the graduating class selects the underclassman of her choice early in the school year.

The activities of this selected group include helping the seniors dress for such important occasions as the Class Day picture and the Junior-Senior dance. This tradition is an important part of life at Salem, for it creates a tie which binds the underclassmen and the seniors in a closer friendship.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

On Senior Day the freshman class presented the Ring Banquet in honor of the class of 1961. Above Peggy Sue Reynolds, President of the senior class is receiving her ring from Miss Lit.

The Father-Daughter Banquet was held for the first time. Both the girls and their fathers enjoyed the delicious Thanksgiving dinner.

The long-awaited Junior-Senior was held on the night of February 11th. Masks in many forms highlighted the decorations of the Mardi Gras Ball.

Elizabeth Terry and Rosemary Halsey, shown here studying together in the Duck-In, received honorable mention when the Honor Graduates were announced.

The Loggia on a sunny day!

Jennie Pleasants, one of our many riders, has won several prizes in horse shows.

Carolyn Meares studies one of the interesting bulletin boards in the Math Lab.

Eleanor Brown, our star golfer, follows through on "a good one."

Once again the Purples triumph over the Golds as Nancy Hundley drives the ball.

The members of the Dramatics Club have turned into Hillbillys!

This year the Junior Class elected four underclassmen to serve refreshments at the Mardi Gras Ball. The servers, Jane Jinch, Myra Boone, Ada Greenblatt, and Mary Anne Borroughs, danced a Can-Can for the guests.

DEDICATION

When we, the class of '61, recall our first visit to Salem Academy as timid applicants, we remember Miss Wheeler as the one who met us at the door and made us feel at home. In the following years when each of us returned to Salem we again found Miss Wheeler willing to advise and help us as we tried to become good Salem citizens. Although we leave Salem this year, we do not feel that we will lose contact with the Academy, for Miss Wheeler as Alumnae secretary will keep us well informed.

Thus, at Salem Miss Wheeler is the tie that binds the traditional and the new. It is she who has helped to preserve much of the valuable heritage of Salem Academy and she who has continuously worked to build upon this heritage a better Salem.

In acknowledgement of her many contributions to Salem and to us, we dedicate the 1961 Quill Pen to Miss Wheeler, our friend and advisor.
